DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-8 and 11-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fukumoto et al. (6,622,908 B2), hereinafter Fukumoto.

Fukumoto et al. teach a punching device comprising a die member having a plurality of die holes 54 and 61, a plurality of punches 52 and 53, an operating member 35, a drive means, detecting means (55, 56, 92, 93) and a control means. See Figs. 1, 3, 4 and 5-8. Types of cams are best seen in Figs. 1 and 5-8. The following is the operating areas with respect to Figs. 6 and 7 in Applicant's Specification:

OPERATING AREAS IN APPLICANT'S FIG. 7	LOCATION OF CAM IN APPLICANT'S FIG. 6	FUKUMOTO'S OPERATING AREA
1	6A	Fig. 6b
2	6B	Fig. 6a
3	6C	Grooves at the right side of the punches 53
4	6D	Fig. 1

Art Unit: 3724

5	6E	Fig. 5a
6	6F	Operating member 35 moves slightly to the right from Fig. 5a.
7	6G	Fig. 5b

Fukumoto is silent on the initializing operation. The initializing operation is the intended use of the operating cam and is operated based on a computer program.

Intended use of a structure does not further limitation of the structure. Since the operating structure of Fukumoto is capable of performing the intended use, it meets the claims. Furthermore, writing computer program is routine skill in the art.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-8 and 11-21 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
